PRELUDE TO YIZKOR

The death of those close to our hearts grieves and humbles us. It devastates our lives, lives that were once filled with the warmth of their presence. It reminds us that we all must die, even the most humble and righteous among us. And yet we know that life does not end at the grave; the soul lives on.

How, then, do we accept the reality of death? By remembering the goodness of our loved ones and by shaping our lives after their example. For the memory of the righteous is truly a blessing, an inspiration for all of our days. May our lives be worthy of their memory, always.

Tearful Recollection

This moment is one of tearful recollection. Here, in the hush and solemnity of this YIZKOR Service, we remember those whom death has taken from us -- who sleep through eternity, united with God. They traveled the highway of life. They came to its end.

Shall we cry out in anger because God's gifts are ours for just a little while? Shall we blot out the love we have known, in which we so often rejoiced, when a force beyond our understanding takes from us loved-ones and friends whom we cherish, leaving us bereft of the lights that once illumined our way? Shall brief moments of darkness extinguish forever the precious glow of those lights, the years of love and affection?

Dear God and Father, may we gain the vision to believe that implanted deep within each of us are the seeds of eternity, undiminished and ever-bright, an eternity that survives the dread hours of affliction and pain, loneliness and despair.

And so we do not pray for years without end, nor for life without the alloy of pain. We ask only this: that when the irrevocable summons is issued, we shall have lived a life of worth and merit. For the righteous there is no greater reward. In life, they invest their thoughts and deeds with Torah. In death, they find peace with God -- and their memory is enshrined in the hearts of all who loved them.

We thank You, O Lord, for the precious loved-ones whom You gave us. Their memories endure, their spirit is everlasting. They live within our hearts. Grant, O Lord, that those whom we now remember may be at peace with You. May we know Your solace and consolation that we triumph over our grief and sorrow. And may our troubled hearts be troubled no more. Amen.

Insert father's name

YIZKOR—In remembrance of a father:

יִזְכֹּר אֱלֹהִים נִשְׁמַת אָבִי מוֹרֵי שְׁהֵלָךְ לְעוֹלָמוֹ. אָנָּה

Through such deeds and through these prayers I will help to keep their souls bound up in the bond of life and an enduring source of blessing. Amen.

The Meaning of Kaddish

One should realize that, although Jewish Law requires that the Kaddish be recited during the first eleven months following the death of a loved one by prescribed mourners, and on each anniversary of the death (the "Yahrtzeit"), there is no reference, no word even, about death in the prayer!

The theme of Kaddish is, rather, the Greatness of G-d, Who conducts the entire universe, and especially his most favored creature, each individual human being, with careful supervision. In this prayer, we also pray for peace - from apparently the only One Who can guarantee it - peace between nations, peace between individuals, and peace of mind.

Paradoxically, this is, in fact, the only true comfort in the case of the loss of a loved one. That is, to be able to view the passing of the beloved individual from the perspective that that person's soul was gathered in, so to speak, by the One Who had provided it in the first place.

As Beruriah, the great wife of Rabbi Meir, consoled her husband, upon the death of their two sons, with words to this effect, "A soul is comparable to an object which was given to us - to each individual, to his or her parents and loved ones, to guard and watch over for a limited time. When the time comes for the object to be returned to its rightful owner, should we not be willing to return it? With regard to our sons, let us therefore consider the matter as 'The L-rd gave, and the L-rd took back, may the Name of the L-rd be Blessed!' "

KADDISH TRANSLATION

Let the glory of G-d be extolled, let His great name be hallowed, in the world whose creation He willed. May His kingdom soon prevail, in our own day, our own lives, and the life of all Israel, and let us say: Amen.

Let His great name be blessed for ever and ever.

Let the name of the Holy One, blessed is He, be glorified, exalted, and honored, though He is beyond all the praises, songs and adorations that we can utter, and let us say:
Amen.

For us and for all Israel, may the blessing of peace and the promise of life come true, and let us say: Amen.

May He who causes peace to reign in the high heavens, let peace descend of us, on all Israel, and all the world, and let us say : Amen.

Six Million Ones

We are here to remember those who cannot be forgotten. We are here to speak of that which cannot be spoken, but which must not be left unsaid. We are here to remind not others, but ourselves of that which has been done of that which has not been done. We are here to ask questions which cannot be answered, but which cannot be left unasked.

We know how to remember the dead we have known, we know how to commemorate the death of one. But all of us mourn not one but six million ones, not only those we have known, but those no one can know, the names that are forever lost.

BIRTH IS A BEGINNING

BIRTH IS A BEGINNING, and death a destination.

And life is a journey from childhood to maturity and youth to age;

from innocence to awareness and ignorance to knowing;
from foolishness to discretion and then, perhaps to wisdom;

from weakness to strength or strength to weakness—and often back again.

From health to sickness and back, we pray, to health again;

from offense to forgiveness, from loneliness to love, from joy to gratitude, from pain to compassion, from grief to understanding— from fear to faith;

from defeat to defeat to defeat-until looking backward or ahead we see that victory lies not at some high place along the way, but in having made the journey, stage by stage a sacred pilgrimage.

Birth is a beginning and death is a destination.

But life is a journey from birth to death to life everlasting.

Ever Close in Mind and Heart

No further away than a picture, a smile, a remembered phrase.
Our loved ones live in Memory,
So close in many ways.
For how often does a sunset
Bring Nostalgic thoughts to mind.
Of moments that our loved ones shared
In days now left behind,
How often has a flower
Or a crystal autumn sky
Brought golden reflections
Of happy days gone by!
Yes, memory has a magic way
Of Keeping loved ones near—
Ever close in Mind and Heart
Are the ones we hold most dear.

There is a Season

To every thing there is its season, a time for every purpose under heaven:

a time to be born, and a time to die;

a time to plant, and a time to uproot;

a time to kill, and a time to heal;

a time to pull down, and a time to build up;

a time to weep, and a time to laugh;

a time to mourn, and a time to dance;

a time to scatter stones, and a time to gather them up;

a time to embrace, and a time to let go;

a time to keep, and a time to throw away;

a time to tear, and a time to mend;

a time for silence, and a time for speech;

a time for love, and a time for hate;

a time for war, and a time for peace.

EACH PERSON HAS A NAME

Each person has a name. We each have a name given by God and given by our father and mother. We each have a name given by our stature and smile and given by our attire.

We each have a name given by the stars and given by our friends. We each have a name given by our sins and given by our yearnings. We each have a name given by our enemies and given by love.

We each have a name given by celebrations and given by our work. We each have a name given by the seasons and given by our blindness. We each have a name given by the sea and given by our death.

WE REMEMBER THEM

In the rising of the sun and in its going down, we remember them.

In the blowing of the wind and the chill of winter, we remember them.

In the opening of buds and in the rebirth of spring. we remember them.

In the blueness of the sky and in the warmth of summer,
We remember them.

In the rustling of the leaves and in the beauty of autumn,
we remember them.

In the beginning of the year and when it ends, we remember them.

When we are weary and in need of strength, we remember them.

When we are lost and sick at heart, we remember them.

When we have joys we yearn to share, we remember them.

So long as we live, they too shall live, for they are now a part of us, as we remember them.

23rd Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want,
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures;
He leadeth me beside the still waters,
He restoreth my soul;
He guideth me in straight paths for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, For Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies;
Thou has anointed my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;
And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

A Reflection

The melody that the loved one played upon the piano of our life will never be played quite that way again, but we must not close the keyboard and allow the instrument to gather dust.

We must seek out other artists of the spirit, new friends who gradually will help us to find the road to life again, who will walk on that road with us.

The establishment of new patterns of interaction with other people, beginning with the interaction of language and moving on to new avenues of creative expression is [a] law for the conquest of grief and the conquest of death.

Priestly Blessing

May God bless you and guard you.

May God shine His countenance upon you and be gracious to you.

May God turn His countenance toward you and grant you peace, all who are bereaved, and let us say: Amen.

She is Gone

You can shed tears that she is gone,
Or you can smile because she lived,
You can close your eyes and pray that she will come back,
Or you can open your eyes and see all that she has left.

Your heart can be empty because you can't see her
Or you can be full of the love that you shared,
You can turn your back on tomorrow and live yesterday,
Or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday.

You can remember her and only that she is gone
Or you can cherish her memory and let it live on,
You can cry and close your mind,
Be empty and turn your back,
Or you can do what she would want:
Smile, open your eyes, love, and go on.
